NOTE

The "Japanese Puzzle Box" (or "Secret Box") is a box that can only be opened by performing a series of movements such as pressing a certain spot or sliding a certain piece. There are anywhere from 2 to 125 movements, and they must be completed in the correct order. The geometric design on the box is inlaid wood. See http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Japanese_puzzle_box for more information.

Special thanks to Puzza and Salvia_Rose
...and everyone who answered my questions about
"huddle-bull play." Sports analogies go over my head.
